Tuhin Ganguly is a trial lawyer who specializes in Section 337 patent litigation before the United States International Trade Commission. Tuhin has represented complainants and respondents in over 20 ITC investigations involving a wide variety of technologies including digital imaging technologies, digital signal processing (optical and audio), integrated circuit technologies, LED technologies, consumer electronics, warehouse automation and robotics, and medical devices. Tuhin also represents clients in high-volume patent venues including the U.S. District Courts for the District of Delaware, the Western District of Texas, the Eastern District of Virginia, the Northern and Central Districts of California, and the Southern District of New York. Tuhin is experienced in managing all aspects of patent litigation—from pre-filing diligence through trial.

Most recently, Tuhin was first chair trial counsel in ITC Investigation No. 337-TA-1256, which involved portable lithium-ion battery jump starters. Tuhin secured a finding of no violation on behalf of his client Winplus North America, Inc., one of the named respondents. The initial determination was later affirmed by the Commission.

Prior to that, Tuhin was lead counsel in ITC Investigation No. 337-TA-1107, which involved LED lighting technology. Tuhin obtained multiple favorable settlements on behalf of complainant Fraen Corporation, a Massachusetts company. Additionally, Tuhin secured a general exclusion order, which are rarely issued by the ITC, in favor of Fraen after proving widespread infringement.

In addition to patent litigation, Tuhin has experience prosecuting patent applications, performing portfolio evaluations, rendering validity and infringement opinions, licensing technologies, and providing strategic counseling to clients on their intellectual property. Tuhin is registered to practice before the United States Patent and Trademark Office.

Tuhin also dedicates time to juvenile immigration pro bono matters. Tuhin previously served on the Washington, DC advisory committee of Kids in Need of Defense (KIND) – an organization devoted to the protection of

Representative Matters

- Defended Winplus North America, Inc. in an ITC investigation—Investigation No. 337-TA-1256—initiated by NOCO Company related to portable battery jump starters. Managed all aspects of the litigation, prepared and defended Winplus's corporate representatives, and examined Winplus's technical expert and cross-examined NOCO's technical expert at the evidentiary hearing.
- Represented Fraen Corporation as a complainant in an ITC investigation—Investigation No. 337-TA-1107—involving LED lighting technology. Obtained favorable licenses from multiple respondents and ultimately obtained a general exclusion order. Managed all aspects of the litigation including fact and expert discovery.
- Successfully defended 3Shape A/S in three ITC investigations—Investigation Nos. 337-TA-1090, 1091, and 1144—initiated by Align Technology, Inc. regarding digital dental scanners and related technology. Also represented 3Shape as both plaintiff and defendant in multiple district court litigations. Took multiple fact and expert witness depositions and cross examined Align's corporate representatives and economics expert at the evidentiary hearings. Ultimately, the parties entered into a favorable global settlement.
